“NATURAL CONSTITUTIONALISM AND THE ATTAINMENT OF IDEALS AND A MORE DECENT HUMAN WORLD”

ABORISADE OLASUNKANMI

Abstract:
This work focuses on the ideals of a more decent human world and the visibility of realizing it, bearing in mind differences between the societies. The attempt to achieve this led to the establishment of different international and national organizations such as UNO, UNICEF, AU, NATO, ECOWAS and many more. But the inability to achieve universally accepted ideals is due to imposition of universal norms and fundamental principles across societies with different cultures. This work proposes natural constitutionalism as a way of creating and realizing the ideals of a more decent human world. A natural law is just and obvious to all; it crosses ideologies, faiths and personal thinking and naturally guarantees justice.

KEYWORDS
Constitutionalism, Culture, Ideology, Justice, Law

REFERENCES
Nwabueze B.O 1973 Ideas and facts in constitution making London Spectrum Books Limited pg.134
Hobbes, Thomas, (1642) De Cive (The Philosophical Rudiments Concerning Government and Society) (various editions) p23

Finch, J, (1979) Introduction to Legal Theory, Sweet & Maxwell, London p14

Thomas Aquinas (1225-1274), Thomas Aquinas, Treatise on Law (Summa Theologica, Questions 90-97) (South Bend, IN: Regnery/Gateway, Inc., 1979) pg. 15.

Hobbes, Thomas, (1642) De Cive (The Philosophical Rudiments Concerning Government and Society) (various editions) pg57

AUTHOR’S AFFILIATION
ABORISADE OLASUNKANMI
Ladoke Akintola University of Technology Ogbomoso P.M.B 4000 OGBOMOSO, NIGERIA.